Governing Body comments:

The British Hang Gliding and Paragliding Association fully support and endorse expeditions such as the one proposed. Very few of our members are able to go to such places around the world where, by their geographical nature offer unparalleled prospects of the most free and liberating means of human flight. The publicity which follows such a trip not only encourages beginner to learn to participate in free flight but also keeps those who are gaining early independent flight experience to stay with us and put more back into the sport. We also recognise that it is by competing and pushing the limits of physical, psychological and organisational aspects of the sport that we can move forward positively as an industry.
